

— Never content

Never content has nothing to do with being unhappy.

Never content has nothing to do with greed.

Never content is an inner stance from which to live.

Those who constantly thrive are usually never content.

They stay hungry.

Staying hungry is a High Status trait.

Hunger is created from drive, purpose, and high intentionality.

Most people asserting how happy they are, usually aren't.

People obsessed with happiness, usually aren't happy people.

They are confusing happiness with distractive activities and/or shiny objects.

Happy people don't strive to be happy.
